Background and Content

China International Steel Congress is a high-level conference focusing on the profound, overall and strategic issues of development of the steel industry. Since its establishment in 2000, the congress has been successfully held fourteen times and enjoys an esteemed reputation globally. The 14th China International Steel Congress, held last year, attracted more than 1,000 representatives from over 300 enterprises, including nearly 300 delegates from more than 60 overseas companies.

Themed “Fusion Innovation · Quality Upgrade”, the Congress will focus on critical issues including quality improvement, digital and intelligent transformation, green and low-carbon development, industrial integration, and international development. It aims to explore how fusion and collaboration can foster systemic innovation, how quality upgrade can consolidate the foundation for high-quality development, and how to jointly promote the steel industry toward a modern industrial system that is high-end, intelligent, green, and integrated.
